		Teachin	g Guide
Identifying Data				2016/17
Subject (*)	Literatura e perspectivas de xénero no ámbito anglófono Code		613505017
Study programme	Mestrado Universitario en Estudos Ingleses Avanzados e as súas Aplicacións (2013)
	'	Desc	riptors
Cycle Period Year Type		Credits
Official Master's Degree	2nd four-month period	Fi	rst	Optativa	3
Language
Teaching method	Face-to-face
Prerequisites
Department	Filoloxía Inglesa
Coordinador	Frias Rudolphi, Maria E-mail maria.frias@udc.es			c.es
Lecturers	Frias Rudolphi, Maria E-mail maria.frias@udc.es		c.es
Web	www.imaes.eu/?page_id=31
General description	Both historically and theoretically	African Ameri	can feminist critics ha	ve angrily argued a	nd furiously defended that White feminist thought have little?if any?to do with Black feminist literary criticism.			icism. Instead of ?fe	eminism? (meaning Western and white feminism), African American	writer Alice V	Valker has come up w	ith a different (and i	more inclusive) term: ?womanism?
	The purpose of this course is to co	oncentrate on	and explore Black fer	ninist thought, and t	o examine representative African American feminist theories to later analyze some works by canonized and emerging new female					female voices in frican/Caribbean/African American literature. Although this is not a course in comparative feminist theories?White vs.
	Black feminist thought?we will start by reading brief excerpts from specific essays where white feminists break?as Tillie Olsen puts it?white women?s silences. We will basically deal with African and African American women?s silences, and their angry, subversive, and loud voices.

rough the s is a tudies
n criteria, tific acquired by s of English

Learning outcomes
Learning outcomes	Study programme
	competences / results

	AR9	BR6
	AR11	BR7
Students wil learn about the literary discourse of critical scholars and writers of the African Diaspora.		BR9
Students will learn about the diversity and complexity of the different multi-ethnic cultures these writers of African descent		BR10
belong to (or reject).		BR11
Students will take advantage of the criticism and theory available on the subject (Black Feminist Thought) and will be encouraged to compare and contrast it with Western feminists schools and/or approaches.
By reading both works of fiction and theory written by writers of the African Diaspora, students will get access to first-hand information about the reality of the so-called Other.
By reading writers of African descent who belong in the Diaspora, students will get a better grasp of women (together with men and children) as migrating subjects AND objects. This knowledge will allow them to look at current migration stories and policies all around the world (but, this time, the socalled Middle Passage finds an echo in the Mediterranean Sea.

Contents
Topic	Sub-topic
1 INTRODUCTION TO BLACK FEMINIST THOUGHT.	1.1. Feminist Pioneers from Slavery and Abolition.
In this first section we provide an Introduction to the Course.	(Sojourner Truth and Maria Stewart)
Why Black Feminist Thought?	1.2. Western Feminists
In which ways is it ideologically different from Western	(Woolf, Olsen, Friedan, Eagleton).
feminisms?
When do we hear the first (black) feminist voices?
What kind of message do they send?
Are there any differences and/or similarities?
Is there an "informed" audience?
1 INTRODUCTION TO n this first section we provide an	2.1. Civil Rights Movement and Black Women's marginal position.
Introduction to the Course.	2.2. Mixed Relations.
Why Black Feminist Thought?	2.3 Crossing the (color) line.
In which ways is it ideologically different from Western feminisms?
When do we hear the first (black) feminist voices?
What kind of message do they send?
Are there any differences and/or similarities?
Is there an "informed" audience?
3 BLACK BLUES WOMEN AND FEMINISMS	3.1. Black Feminists from Margins to Center.
4 SEXUAL OPTIONS and BLACK HOMOPHOBIA.	4.1. LGBTI Discourses.
	4.2. African American Lesbians, Gays, and Transexuals in Literature, Media and Film.
5 AFROPOLITANS AND FEMINISMS IN THE DIASPORA.	5.1. New Cosmopolitan Voices.
	5.2. Modernity versus Tradition.
	5.3. Women/Mothers as Victims and Victimizers.

Planning
Methodologies / tests	Competencies /	Teaching hours	Student?s personal	Total hours
	Results	(in-person & virtual)	work hours
Workbook	A9 A11 B6 B7 B9 B10	5	41	46
	B11
Oral presentation	A9 B6 B9 B10	1	10	11
Guest lecture / keynote speech	A9 A11 B6 B7	0	0	0
Supervised projects	A9 A11 B7 B9 B10	1	12	13

Personalized attention 5 0 5

(*)The information in the planning table is for guidance only and does not take into account the heterogeneity of the students.

Methodologies
Description
Students are expected to read assigned required readings BEFORE class starts.
Students are also expected to read the feminist criticism and theory material thoroughly, and to participate freely and regularly in classroom discussions.
Students are provided with two different types of readings:
1) Reguired readings: Here we include different genres (from short stories to poems or essays and novels) by representative writers of the African Diaspora.
2) Critical readings: Here we include a number of scholarly articles and essays written by outstanding critics on the field of Feminisms, Black Feminist Thought, or Feminisms of the African Diaspora.
ALL students are expected to prepare a class presentation (15 to 20 minutes max.) on one or more critical articles included in the Syllabus.
They will have to summarize main relevant ideas and provide examples and quotations from article.
They will have to evaluate that reading and present their own critical opinions (pros and cons).
They will point at a particular required reading/author that can be read in view of the article/s chosen.
Students should come prepare with comments and or questions for their class-mates.
This is a power-point presentation. Students should include audio-visual material related to the topic (an interview with author if available; a documentary; illustrations, and the like).
This teaching method is practice-oriented, and it puts the emphasis on how to learn.
The lecture (practice-oriented) goes two ways. Basically, it should work more as a dialogue (between lecturer and students) than a monologue. Lecture, thus, should help to start different dialogues.
Students are introduced to the socio-historical context of Africans in the Diaspora and to key concepts in Black Feminist criticism and theory.
For each particular writer included in the required reading list, students wil get familiar with general information about the author and her/his time. Information on critical reception, controversial readings, and new approaches will be provided.
This introductory "lectures" will be followed by a discussion (where students are the protagonists), as well as by a sesion on comments and questions.
If possible, we might have a guest who would complement our goals.
ALL students are expected to write an original comparative essay with a critical framework that highlights a Black Feminist approach. Students can, of course, compare and contrast different critical theories (Western Feminisms versus Black Feminisms) within the paper.
For this comparative essay students can choose to compare a text from the required readings list with a film or a documentar since students will be provided with a litst of "ALTERNATIVE MATERIAL" that includes both fiction and audio

Personalized attention
Methodologies	Description

Oral presentation

ORAL PRESENTATION.

Supervised projects

Before students choose topic for his/her oral presentation they should contact me to discuss different possibilities and approaches.

Teacher will provide students with the necessary information to organize and prepare for their class presentation (number of slides, selection of quotations, choice of audio-visual material, etc).

Students should contact instructor in case they might need any extra advice.

Instructor should approve oral presentation once the work is done.

After class presentation and discussion are over, instructor will meet with the student to comment on the student's strenghts and overall performance.

COMPARATIVE ESSAYS

Students should inform instructor choice of topic, authors, texts chosen and critical approach for the comparative essay.

There will be a tutorial to make it clear basic needs as far as form and content are concerned.

Instructor would suggest relevant theory to be used by student and recommend revisions of first draft.

Students should have the approval of instructor to start working on comparative essay.

Instructor and students will meet periodically when and if necessary for tutorials.

Mathadalagias	Competencies /	Description	Qualification
		Description	Qualification
	Results
Oral presentation	A9 B6 B9 B10	For class presentation, students should provide a close reading and an indepth	30 analysis of one ortwo theoretic essays (included in the bibliiography list).
		The purpose is for each student to critically introduce one/two particular articles/essays to the rest of the class, and engage in a dialogue with the other students.
		This is a power point presentation.
		Students are encouraged to include audio-visual material such as documentaries, video clips or film trailers.
		Students should highlight most interesting/innovative /controversial/ difficult points and provide quotations from the article.
		They should come prepare to ask questions to the audience and respond accordingly.
Workbook A9 A11 B6 B7 B9 B10	A9 A11 B6 B7 B9 B10	Since students are expected to read assigned required readings BEFORE class, we	20
	B11	will start by commenting on specific assigned text.
		Students should come prepared to class with comments and or questions on the specific text.
		Students's own voice, originality, creativity and challenging readings would be taken into account
Supervised projects	A9 A11 B7 B9 B10	ALL students should write a comparative essay and provide a Black Feminist/s	50 reading.
		Texts for comparaison should be chosen from the Required List readings.
		Students are encouraged to use the theoretical articles included in bibliography as well as any other material.

Assessment comments

EXEMPTION. Given that this degree programme is part distance learning, part actual attendance, students are required to attend the compulsory sessions, unless they have applied for exemption within the time period specified by the Academic Commission of the degree, and this exeption has been granted. This exemption will be valid provided students comply with the rules on attendance in force in the three universities participating in the programme, and provided they comply with the assessment systems that are specified in the teaching guides for each module. Students should be aware, however, that not attending certain classroom sessions may affect their final grades. Students who have been granted exemption, as specified in the university regulations, will be assessed according to the criteria applied to the July opportunity. Students who do not submit a supervised project, or who fail to submit at least 50% of the other tasks for assessment, will be graded as absent from assessment (NO: no presentado). Students who do not pass in the first opportunity will be able to re-sit in July, when they will be required to demonstrate that they have acquired the skills for each module via two types of assessment: a supervised project with the same percentage value and characteristics as in the first opportunity, plus the exercises agreed upon with the lecturer(s) as a substitute for the other activities of the module.

Given that this degree programme is part distance learning, part actual attendance, students are required to attend the compulsory sessions, unless they have applied for exemption within the time period specified by the Academic Commission of the degree, and this exemption has been granted. This exemption will be valid provided students comply with the rules on attendance in force in the three universities participating in the programme, and provided they comply with the assessment systems which are specified in the teaching guides for each module. Students should be aware, however, that not attending certain classroom sessions may affect their final grades.

Students

who have been granted exemption, as specified in the university regulations, will be assessed according to the criteria applied to the July opportunity.

Students

who do not submit a supervised project, or who fail to submit at least 50% of the other tasks for assessment, will be graded as absent from assessment (NP: no presentado).

Students

who do not pass in the first opportunity will be able to re-sit in July, when they will be required to demonstrate that they have acquired the skills for each module via two types of assessment: a supervised project with the same percentage value and characteristics as in the first opportunity, plus the exercises agreed upon with the lecturer(s) as a substitute for the other activities of the module.

Given that this degree programme is part distance learning, part actual attendance, students are required to attend the compulsory sessions, unless they have applied for exemption within the time period specified by the Academic Commission of the degree, and this exemption has been granted. This exemption will be valid provided students comply with the rules on attendance in force in the three universities participating in the programme, and provided they comply with the assessment systems which are specified in the teaching guides for each module. Students should be aware, however, that not attending certain classroom sessions may affect their final grades.

Students

who have been granted exemption, as specified in the university regulations, will be assessed according to the criteria applied to the July opportunity.

Students

who do not submit a supervised project, or who fail to submit at least 50% of the other tasks for assessment, will be graded as absent from assessment (NP: no presentado).

Students

who do not pass in the first opportunity will be able to re-sit in July, when they will be required to demonstrate that they have acquired the skills for each module via two types of assessment: a supervised project with the same percentage value and characteristics as in the first opportunity, plus the exercises agreed upon with the lecturer(s) as a substitute for the other activities of the module.

Given that this degree programme is part distance learning, part actual attendance, students are required to attend the compulsory sessions, unless they have applied for exemption within the time period specified by the Academic Commission of the degree, and this exemption has been granted. This exemption will be valid provided students comply with the rules on attendance in force in the three universities participating in the programme, and provided they comply with the assessment systems which are specified in the teaching guides for each module. Students should be aware, however, that not attending certain classroom sessions may affect their final grades.

Students

who have been granted exemption, as specified in the university regulations, will be assessed according to the criteria applied to the July opportunity. Students who do not submit a supervised project, or who fail to submit at least 50% of the other tasks for assessment, will be graded as absent from assessment (NP: no presentado).

Studente

who do not pass in the first opportunity will be able to re-sit in July, when they will be required to demonstrate that they have acquired the skills for each module via two types of assessment: a supervised project with the same percentage value and characteristics as in the first opportunity, plus the exercises agreed upon with the lecturer(s) as a substitute for the other activities of the module.

Sources of information

Basic

- Bobo, Jacqueline (2001). Black Feminist Cultural Criticism. Blackwell
- Braxton, Joanne (1989). Black Women in the Whirlwind. Rutgers
- Christian, Barbara (1980). Black Women Novelists: The Development of a Tradition. Praeger
- Christian, Barbara (2007). New Black Feminist Criticism. University of Illinois
- Hill Collins, Patricia (1991). Black Feminist Thought. Rutgers
- Hill Collins, Patricia (2005). Black Sexual Politics: African Americans, Gender, and the New Racism. Routledge
- Hill Collins, Patricia (2012). On Intellectual Activism. Temple University P
- hooks, bell (1999). Ain't I a Woman? Black Women and Feminism. South End P.
- hooks, bell (1999). Feminist Theory: From Margin to Center. London: Pluto
- Mohanty, Chandra Talpade (2003). Feminism without Borders: Decolonizing Theory. Duke University
- Lorde, Audre (2007). Sister Outsider: Essays and Speeches. Crossing Press
- Smith, Barbara (1983). Home Girls: A Black Feminist Anthology. Kitchen Table
- Adichie, Chimamanda Ngozi (2014). We Should All Be Feminists. HarperCollins
- Wawrzinek, Jennifer (2011). Negotiating Afropolitanism. New York: Rodopi

THEORY AND CRITICISM This is a basic bibliography as far as theory and criticism is concerned. These are relevant texts by canonized critics and scholars in the specific field of Black Feminist Thought or Cultural Studies or Literatures of the African Diaspora. In the long run, these readings are a must for any student interested in and eager to be familiarized with the topic of Black Feminist Thought. There is a diversity of voices, but they are many more who could be included in this list. It is up to the students to go ahead and get involved in a more indepth research. For practical reasons and due to the (short) length of this course, your lecturer will provide students with a Course Pack that include a selection of readings from most of the critical texts mentioned above. This Course Pack will be available both in Reprografía and, whenever possible in your Moodle set (PDF format). It is from these selection of critical and theoretical articles that students will prepare for their class presentation. Students are also encouraged to use some of these sources, among others, when preparing to write their Comparative Essay. GENERAL BIBLIOGRAPHY BLACK FEMINIST THOUGTHBobo, Jacqueline (ed). Black Feminist Cultural Criticism. [L2A-1076] Braxton, Joanne (ed). Wild Women in the Whirlwind: Afra-American Culture and the Contemporary Literary Renaissance. [L2-1584]Christian, Barbara. Black Women?s Novelists: The Development of a Tradition (1892-1976). [Filoloxía Bib Rec L2-1613]---. New Black Feminist Criticism 1985-2000 [Fil Bib Rec L2-3478]Collins, Patricia Hill. Black Feminist Thought (1991) Socioloxía DSOC 7854 Davis, Angela. Women, Race, and Class. NewYork: Vintage, 1981. Hill Collins, Patricia. Black Feminist Thought: Knowledge, Consciousness, and the Politics of Empowerment. New York: Routledge, 1990.---. Black Sexual Politics. [L2A-802]---. On Intellectual Activism [CC Educación P2-1501]hooks, bell. Ain?t I a Woman?: Black Women and Feminism.[CC Edu S1-5175 Black Looks Race and Representation. Boston: South End P, 1992. [L2A 429]---. Feminist Theory. From Margin to Center. London: Pluto P, 2000. [L2A 474]---. Talking Back: Thinking Feminist, Thinking Black, Socioloxía S7-B-11 Hull, Gloria T., Patricia Bell Scott, and Barbara Smith (eds). All the Women Are White, All the Blacks Are Men, But Some of Us Are Brave. New York: The Feminist P, 1982. James, Joy and T. Denean Sharpley-Whiting. The Black Feminist Reader. Oxford: Blackwell, 2000. Lorde, Audre. Sister Outsider: Essays and Speeches. Mohanty, Chandra Talpade. Feminism Without Borders: Decolonizing Theory, [HF-1498Schockley, Ann Allen. Loving Her (1997) [L2t-SHOCKLEY-lov]---. ?The Practising Solidarity (2003) Black Lesbian in American Literature: An Overview? in Home Girls. Ed. Barbara Smith [83-93]Smith, Barbara (ed). All the Women Are White, All the Blacks Are Men, But Some Of Us Are Brave. [L2A-105]---. Home Girls. A Black Feminist Anthology. New York: Kitchen Table P, 1983. [Socioloxía S7-B-1]Smith, Valerie. Not Just Race, Not Just Gender (Black Feminist Reader). [FILDEP- 19577] 6.- GENERAL BIBLIOGRAPHY BLACK FEMINIST THOUGTHBobo, Jacqueline (ed). Black Feminist Cultural Criticism.[L2A-1076]Braxton, Joanne (ed). Wild Women in the Whirlwind: Afra-American Culture and the Contemporary Literary Renaissance. [L2-1584]Christian, Barbara. Black Women?s Novelists: The Development of a Tradition (1892-1976). [Filoloxía Bib Rec L2-1613]---. New Black Feminist Criticism 1985-2000 [Fil Bib Rec L2-3478]Collins, Patricia Hill. Black Feminist Thought (1991) [Socioloxía DSOC 7854]Davis, Angela. Women, Race, and Class. NewYork: Vintage, 1981. Hill Collins, Patricia. Black Feminist Thought: Knowledge, Consciousness, and the Politics of Empowerment. New York: Routledge, 1990.---. Black Sexual Politics. [L2A-802]---. On Intellectual Activism [CC Educación P2-1501]hooks, bell. Ain?t I a Woman?: Black Women and Feminism.[CC Edu S1-5175 Black Looks Race and Representation. Boston: South End P, 1992.

[L2A 429]---. Feminist Theory. From Margin to Center. London: Pluto P, 2000. [L2A 474]---. Talking Back: Thinking Feminist, Thinking Black.[Socioloxía S7-B-11]Hull, Gloria T., Patricia Bell Scott, and Barbara Smith (eds). All the Women Are White, All the Blacks Are Men, But Some of Us Are Brave. New York: The Feminist P, 1982. James, Joy and T. Denean Sharpley-Whiting. The Black Feminist Reader. Oxford: Blackwell, 2000.Lorde, Audre. Sister Outsider: Essays and Speeches. Mohanty, Chandra Talpade. Feminism Without Borders: Decolonizing Theory, Practising Solidarity (2003) [HF-1498Schockley, Ann Allen. Loving Her (1997) [L2t-SHOCKLEY-lov]---. ?The Black Lesbian in American Literature: An Overview? in Home Girls. Ed. Barbara Smith [83-93]Smith, Barbara (ed). All the Women Are White, All the Blacks Are Men, But Some Of Us Are Brave. [L2A-105]---. Home Girls. A Black Feminist Anthology. New York: Kitchen Table P, 1983. [Socioloxía S7-B-1]Smith, Valerie. Not Just Race, Not Just Gender (Black Feminist Reader). [FILDEP- 19577]WESTERN FEMINISMSBraidotti, Rosi. Sujetos Nómadas: Corporización y diferencia sexual en la Teoría Feminista Contemporánea (2000)[Dereito ? 340.1-3752/6--- Nomadic Subjects. [CC Edu S1-4848]The Cambridge Companion to Feminist Literary Theory [L1-2598]Friedan, Betty. The Feminine Mystique (1997) [L2A-129]Eagleton, Mary. Feminist Literary Theory. Oxford: Blackwell, 1986.Gilbert and Gubar (eds). The Madwoman in the Attic [after thirty years] (2009). [L2-4486]---, Feminist Literary Theory and Criticism. A Norton Reader.[L2t-feminist]Kaplan, Carla. The Erotics of Talk. Women?s Writing and Feminist Paradigms. New York: Oxford University P, 1996. [L2 ? 1754] Showalter, Elaine. The New Feminist Criticism. New York: Pantheon Books, 1985. [L2-1241a]Spelman, Elizabeth V. Inessential Woman. Problems of Exclusion in Feminist Thought. Boston: Beacon P. 1988.WHITE / WESTERN FEMINIST CRITICISM/REQUIRED READINGS [Excerpts]: Mary Eagleton?s Feminist Literary Theory (1986)? Women and Literary Production? (40-46).? Gender and Genre. (Introd: Women and the Novel)? (88-92). Ellman, Mary. ?Thinking About Women? (86-87). Gilbert, Sandra M. and Susan Gubar. ?The Madwoman in the Attic? (63-70).Lovell, Terry. ?Writing Like a Woman: A Question of Politics? (83-85).Moers, Ellen. ?Literary Women? (8-11).Olsen, Tillie. ?Silences? (53-57).Ozick, Cynthia. ?Women and Creativity: The Demise of the Dancing Dog? (85-86). Smith, Barbara. ?Toward a Black Feminist Criticism? (77-82). Woolf, Virginia. ?A Room of One?s Own? (7-8).---. ?A Room of One?s Own? (47-51).---. ?Professions for Women? (51-53).Carla Kaplan?s The Erotics of Talk (1996). [OPTIONAL]? ?Somebody I Can Talk to?: Teaching Feminism Through The Color Purple? (123-138),? ?That Oldest Human Longing?: The Erotics of Talk in Their Eyes Were Watching God? (99-122).Joy James? The Black Feminist Reader (2000).?Combahee River Collective. A Black Feminist Statement? (261-170). Awkward, Michael. ? A Black Man?s Place in Black Feminist Criticism? (88-108). Patricia Hill-Collins?s Black Feminist Thought (1990).?Defining Black Feminist Thought? (9-39).?Toward an Afrocentric Feminist Epistemology? (201-219), ?Black Women: Shaping Feminist Theory? (1-17),?Feminism: A Movement to End Sexist Oppression? (18-33). ?The Significance of Feminist Movement? (34-42).bell hooks?s Black Looks, Race and Representation (1992).?Reconstructing Black Masculinity? (87-113). Angela Davis?s Women, Race, and Class (1981).?Class and Race in the Early Women?s Rights Campaign? (46-69). Gloria T. Hull et als?s All the Women Are White. . . (1982) Wallace, Michele, ?A Black Feminist?s Search for Sisterhood? (5-12), Elaine Showalter?s The New Feminist Criticism (1985). Zimmerman, Bonnie. ?What Has Never Been. An Overview of Lesbian Feminist Literary Criticism? (200-224). Elizabeth Spelman?s Inessential Woman. . . (1988)? Gender and Race: The Ampersand Problem in Feminist Thought? (114-142).Barbara Smith?s Home Girls. . . (1983)

Complementary

- Phillis Wheatley (1773). "On Being Brought from Africa to America".
- Sojourner Truth (1845). " Ain't I a Woman? ".
- Maria Stewart (1832). " Why Sit Ye Here and Die? ".
- Alice Walker (1976). " Advancing Luna and Ida B. Wells". New York: Anchor
- Toni Cade Bambara (1990). " Witchbird ". New York: Anchor
- Paule Marshall (1990). " Reena". New York: Anchor
- Z.Z. Parker (2003). " Drinking Coffee Elsewhere " . New York: Riverhead
- Taiye Selasi (2011). " The Sex Lives of African Girls ". GRANTA 2011
- ()...

This is a list of Required Readings (tentative). For practical reasons, we just concentrate on short pieces: Speeches, poems, essays or short stories. These fiction and non-fiction readings are discussed in class in view of Black Feminists scholars and theories (as well as Western key names, such as Woolf, Olsen, Eagleton, to name just a few). Students should read critically, analize these texts and come up with their own suggestions and conclusions (if any). Students should do the readings BEFORE they come to class and come prepared with comments and/or questions. For their Comparative Essay, students should choose among the writers included in this list. Since some of the texts are difficult to find, students will find copies in their Moodle set (PDF format). Once the students have chosen texts, authors and topic for Comparative Essay, I would recommend them to start doing extra research as soon as possible. This is a list of Required Readings (tentative). For practical reasons, we just concentrate on short pieces: Speeches, poems, essays or short stories. These fiction and non-fiction readings are discussed in class in view of Black Feminists scholars and theories (as well as Western key names, such as Woolf, Olsen, Eagleton, to name just a few). Students should read critically, analize these texts and come up with their own suggestions and conclusions (if any). Students should do the readings BEFORE they come to class and come prepared with comments and/or questions. For their Comparative Essay, students should choose among the writers included in this list. Since some of the texts are difficult to find, students will find copies in their Moodle set (PDF format). Once the students have chosen texts, authors and topic for Comparative Essay, I would recommend them to start doing extra research as soon as possible.

Recommendations

Subjects that it is recommended to have taken before

Modelos de interpretación literario-cultural nos países de fala inglesa /613505008

Literatura e diversidade cultural no ámbito anglófono /613505015

Subjects that are recommended to be taken simultaneously

Modelos de interpretación literario-cultural nos países de fala inglesa /613505008

Subjects that continue the syllabus

Other comments

(*)The teaching guide is the document in which the URV publishes the information about all its courses. It is a public document and cannot be modified. Only in exceptional cases can it be revised by the competent agent or duly revised so that it is in line with current legislation.