Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Guest lecture / keynote speech	An hour long theoretical lesson, given with computer support, developing the contents in the program of the subject, for his utilisation in practical proposals.
Seminar	Seminar by working block: Lectures given by part of the work groups, showing the adopted solution to the corresponding section of the tutoring work. Opening the floor for comments, with the participation of the rest of groups, about parts of the work previously defined.
Supervised projects	Semiannual practice exposed at the beginning of the semester and separated in several sections, each one of which constitutes an application block of the contents given in the lectures. This practice is realized in group, assuming a collaborative work and sharing decisions.  In each one of the separated blocks of the tutoring work, the student has to do an individual research work about the subject treated in the block.  Contemplating individual tutoring of the student about the tutoring work, in its presential development as well as in non presential.
Objective test	It is a theoretical/practical test used for the learning evaluation, that enables the possibility of determining whether the student has reached his expected learning level. Constituting an instrument of measure, rigorously articulated, allowing to evaluate capacities, skills, performance, aptitudes and attitudes.
Events academic / information	Other complementary activities for the student training constituted by assistance to conferences, talks, exhibitions, etc.
Oral presentation	At the end of the semester, each group has to do an oral presentation of the general practice realised, presenting each one of the sections and with the participation of all the members, during a time previously set.

Personalized attention
Methodologies	Description
Supervised projects	Attention is conceived as a working presential moment of the student with the professor in reduced group and individualized tutoring to be done in the previously set hours by the professor.

Assessment
