Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Objective test	Oral or written test used for learning assessment, whose distinctive feature is the possibility of determining whether or not the answers given are correct. It constitutes a measuring instrument, rigorously elaborated, that allows evaluating knowledge, capacities, skills, performance, aptitudes, attitudes, intelligence, etc. It is applicable for both diagnostic, formative and summative evaluation. The objective test can combine different types of questions: multiple choice, ranking, short answer, discrimination, completion and / or association questions. You can also build with just one type of any of these questions
Student portfolio	For the purposes of this subject, the student's portfolio designates the set of works, practices and tasks of any kind carried out and delivered by the student during the term according to the criteria indicated by the teacher.
Guest lecture / keynote speech	Oral presentation in English and Spanish, complemented by the use of audiovisual media and the introduction of some questions for students, in order to transmit knowledge and facilitate learning. The master class is also known as "lecture", "expository method" or "master class". This last modality is usually reserved for a special type of lesson given by a teacher on special occasions, with content that involves original elaboration and based on the almost exclusive use of the word as a way of transmitting information to the audience.

Personalized attention
Methodologies	Description

Objective test Guest lecture / keynote speech Student portfolio	The academic activity developed by the teachers, individually or in a small group, aims to meet the needs and queries of the students related to the study of the contents of this subject, providing guidance, support and motivation in the learning process. This activity can be carried out face-to-face (directly in the classroom and in office tutorials) or non-face-to-face (via email or virtual campus) and is especially useful for students with no attendance or partial enrollment. Personalized attention should not be confused with academic tutoring, since this refers to the need to assign a tutor to each student from the first course until the end of the undergraduate university studies, with the aim of offering permanent and formal support in those moments when you must make decisions.

Assessment comments

II. GENERAL EVALUATION CRITERIA 1. Of the total volume of student work in this area, a large part corresponds to individual or group work that students themselves undertake to do without the presence of the person in charge of teaching. 2. The evaluation of learning must include both the process and the result obtained, always bearing in mind that the way of evaluating conditions the learning method and influences the learning itself. 3. The objective written test evaluates the result obtained, but does not allow to accurately assess the learning process. Precisely for this, performance and learning obtained through the combination of formative assessment and final assessment activities will be valued, so that the grade will be the result of continuous assessment and the completion of a final test. 4. Continuous evaluation implies evaluating the effort and the learning process through the participation of the students. 5. The objective test involves evaluating the learning results.

II. SPECIFIC EVALUATION CRITERIA

1º) The total score of the subject comprises two parts: the objective test that represents 50% of the grade, and the set of practices carried out during the course, which will comprise the remaining 50%. The delivery of the practices for their assessment by the teacher can only be done on the Moodle platform and within the period indicated in each case by the teacher.

2º) It is essential to achieve 50% of the grade corresponding to each of the sections to be evaluated so that the different methodologies are added in order to obtain a final average mark. Failure to achieve the minimum required in any of the parts, the student would not pass the subject.

3º) The students with recognition of part-time dedication and academic exemption from attendance exemption must meet the same requirements as the rest of the students, as they do not have a weight in their evaluation for classroom attendance.

III. SECOND CALL: In the July call, students must examine the part of the subject that they did not pass in the ordinary call, keeping the note of the passed part. That is to say: if they had passed the objective test, they should deliver the portfolio; if they have passed the portfolio, they should carry out the objective test; if they have not passed either, they must overcome both.
