General description	-This is a core subject in the Degree in Economics, and hence it will require a sound command of the topics that will be covered during the course. -The aim of this subject is to study, at an introductory level, different topics about the consumer's behaviour, the theory of the firm and the competitive markets. All the analyses will be presented in terms of both simple mathematical models and graphic representations. The topics covered in this course will be studied in depth in subsequent intermediate and advanced courses.
Contingency plan	1. Content changes: There are no changes. 2. Methodologies * Teaching methodologies that are kept: During the period of presentiality part (or all) of the methodologies will be carried out in the facilities of the faculty. *Teaching methodologies that are modified: During the period of semi-presentiality (or non-presentiality) part (or all) of the methodologies will be carried out using telematic tools. 3. Mechanisms for personalised attention to the students: Telematic tools, whenever the students need it. 4. Modifications in the assessment: In periods of semi-presentiality (or non-presentiality) the assessment (or part of it) will be carried out entirely using telematic tools. *Observations of assessment: 5. Modifications of the bibliography or webgraphy: There are no modifications. Students will have the list of references in Moodle and Fatic.

Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Guest lecture / keynote speech	Lectures with media support, that may be completed with the introduction of questions to students to boost interactive learning and improve the knowledge transmission
Problem solving	Practical issues to solve in interactive sessions
Case study	The student is faced to a particular problem (the case) that describes a real or supposed professional situation and he (she) must be able to analyze and solve it.
Seminar	Group Mentoring: The whole group is divided in two subgroups (the half of the students in each one -about 15 students each-) and there will be four mentoring group hours for each subgroup along the course.
Directed discussion	Theoretical and practical issues to resolve in interactive sessions
Mixed objective/subjective test	Written test that may combine multiple choice questions, sorting, short-answer and / or discrimination

Assessment comments
ASSESSMENT REGULATION: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Unless something different is formally mentioned by the professors of the course, it is completely forbidden to attend the assessment activities with any device that allows the student either to communicate with people outside the room, or to store pieces of information. During the exams the mobiles must be switched off at all times.2. Every student must prove her/his identity in accordance with the current regulation. ASSESSMENT: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. In order to pass the subject any student must obtain, at least, 5 points of a maximum of 10.2. The different continuous assessment activities will take place during the course, and they weight 30% of the final mark. This being clarified, those who obtain, at least, 5 points (of a maximum of 10) in the objective tests will not need to sit the official exam.3. In the official exams the students will have the chance to retake this continuous assessment mark. As a result of this, in any of these exams it will be possible to obtain the 100% of the qualification.4. Any student who does not take part in at least 20% of the assessments activities will get the "No Presentado" final mark, regardless of the mark obtained in these activities.5. The part time students and to those who have the "dispensa académica de exención de asistencia" according to the UDC's regulation will have the chance to complete the continuous assessment, after adapting these activities to their specific situation. ASSESSMENT OPPORTUNITIES: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. First official opportunity: the students will have the chance to obtain the 100% of the final qualification by means of an objective test that will consist of different types of questions about the topics covered throughout the whole course.2. Second official opportunity: the students will have the chance to obtain the 100% of the final qualification by means of an objective test that will consist of different types of questions about the topics covered throughout the whole course.3. The "early opportunity" will consist of a sole exam that will weight 100% of the final mark. Therefore, to pass the subject any student must obtain, at least, 5 points of a maximum of 10 in this exam.

Other comments

Students are encouraged to attend the lectures and to show an important level of participation. We strongly recommend the use of the textbooks listed in the "sources of information" section. Additionally, students must try to solve the problem sets when they are released. When handing any assessment the student should: -not use plastics. -print two-faced. -use recycled paper. -avoid unnecessary printouts. Everybody is kindly asked to facilitate the full integration of those with special needs.
