Assessment comments
Attendance, attitude and participation in class and lab may have a modulating effect of up to 10% of the final grade.
The overall score is calculated by adding the scores of the objective test, the case studies, laboratory practices and the possible modulating effect of attendance, class participation and attitude and practices.
If a student does not attend classes (both expository and interactive teaching and / or laboratory practices) and has granted the corresponding dispensation of attendance to class, in such case, the objective test will have a weight of 80% on the final grade.
