General description	This subject aims to enable the systematic teaching of the legal order that is intended to regulate the International Society/Community, facilitating the understanding among students of the basic problems that surround it. By teaching and disseminating International Law, it is intended to contribute, to a large extent, to making the international Society and the subjects that compose it progress on the path of peace. Taking into account the essential content of this scientific discipline, his teaching is approached from a realistic vision, but with the firm purpose of involving the student in the values that inspire the international legal system, pointing out, whenever possible, suggestions for improvement. of the rules that comprise it and insisting, above all, on its compliance. In this context, one of the most important functions of teaching public international law is situated: demonstrating and convincing students that this is an increasingly relevant discipline in the training of all jurists and that they become aware of the international perspective, which gives them knowledge of the international legal system, as an essential element of the interdependent world. The university teaching function, in which an informative and a formative function is combined, must serve to train lawyers who can find professional opportunities linked to their studies, but, above all, it must also serve to train and enhance the intellectual capacities of students. so that they can and know how to deal critically with the values and social attitudes that are developed in the national and international societies of which they are a part.

Assessment comments

There are two types of evaluation: continuous and global. TYPE OF CONTINUOUS EVALUATION (First OPPORTUNITY): During the semester, the students will have to do two multiple-choice tests as well as to assist and participate to the seminars. These activities will represent maximum six points of the final grade. Students must be present in at least 80% of the seminars. At the end of the semester, a final exam of the Course will take place, which represents maximum four points of the final grade. It is necessary to get at least two points for the final exam in order to pass the exam as well as for adding the points got for the multiple-choice tests, and assistance and participation in the seminars. TYPE OF GLOBAL EVALUATION (First OPPORTUNITY): The evaluation of the students that do not follow the type of continuous evaluation will consist of two parts: (1) a written exam made up by questions to be largely answered, which will represent 60% of the final grade of the Course; and (2) multiple-choice test, which will represent 40% of the final grade of the Course. Regarding the second opportunity of exam, the system of evaluation will be similar to the one of the first opportunity. For students with recognition of part-time dedication and academic dispensation of exemption from attendance, the evaluation will consist of a final exam on contents of the Course, whose maximum grade will be 10 points out of 10. Any attempt of fraud or plagiarism in any activities that will be developed during the semester or during the final exam will be penalized with a ?0? as the final grade of the Course in both opportunities of the exam.
