Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Directed discussion	When dealing with literature, debating is essential for in-depth analysis and to assimilate contents, as well as to exchange ideas and interpretations. It may take place in the general sessions (D.E. hours, "docencia expositiva" or lecture hours) or in small groups (T.G.R., "titoría grupo reducido"), and it will be the main methodology in the hours assigned to D.I. ("docencia interactiva", Interactive teaching).
Workbook	In a literature course, it is essential for each student to take on the responsibility to complete the assigned readings before entering the classroom. In English Literature I, the schedule of readings will be made available both in the classroom and the Moodle platform. It is also each student's responsibility to be up to date on possible changes in the schedule.
Guest lecture / keynote speech	In the lecture sessions, the professor will present the theoretical contents related to English literature and its context from its origins until the end of the 17th century. Basic concepts for the analysis of literary texts will also be introduced in these classes. All these contents will be developed later in the D.I. and T.G.R sessions.
Supervised projects	Students will complete various written assignments (eg., literary analyses) mostly during class time. Out of the classroom, students will undertake additional tasks, such as reading, reviewing and editing.
Mixed objective/subjective test	Students will take a final exam in which they will need to demonstrate their mastery of the theoretical contents introduced in the D.E. classes (large groups) as well as the skills practised in every class, particularly D.I. (mid-size group) and T.G.R. (small group). This exam will consist of two parts (each worth 50% of the grade): I) short questions (definitions of critical terms and periods, identification of excerpts from the texts studied, etc); II) a well-structured written analysis/interpretation of a text (from the reading list) following the guidelines studied throughout the semester.
Seminar	In T.G.R. sessions, oral and written presentations will be debated, as it corresponds to this academic field, by paying attention to the interpretations generated by the readings and the resultant learning of D. I. sessions.

Personalized attention
Methodologies	Description
Supervised projects Seminar	In the seminars, activities will be developed in reduced groups and/or individually. Professors will supervise the work of each student, especially during these activities. It will be of high importance for each student to use the tutorials to deepen in any question related to the program and to attend an individual tutorial during the course to make a reflection upon his or her progress.

Mixed objective/subjective test	A1 A2 A3 A6 A7 A9 A11 A15 B3 B4 B7 B10	Students will take a final exam in which they will need to demonstrate their mastery of the theoretical contents introduced in the D.E. classes (large groups) as well as the skills practised in every class, particularly D.I. (mid-size group) and T.G.R. (small group). This exam will consist of two parts (each worth 50% of the grade): I) short questions (definitions of critical terms and periods, identification of excerpts from the texts studied, etc); II) well-structured written analysis/interpretation of a text (from the reading list) following the guidelines studied throughout the semester. In order to pass the subject, students must obtain a minimum of 4 points out of 10 (1.75 or more out of 5 in each of the two parts). No other grade from any other assesment component in the course will be added up to the exam grade unless these minimum requirements are met.	50
Directed discussion	A2 A6 A7 A9 A11 A15 B4 B5 B7 B8 B10 C2 C4 C7	Attendance will be worth up to 5%; additionally, the student?s daily commitment to her/his learning will be valued up to 15%. To this end, the student?s active contribution to and performance in both oral and written, individual and group assignments will be taken into account, as well as the attention given to professors? and other students? explanations.	20
Supervised projects	A1 A2 A3 A6 A7 A9 A10 A11 A15 B1 B2 B4 B5 B6 B7 B8 B10 C2 C4 C7	Written assignments of varying difficulty, done in class, in which students will demonstrate, mainly, their ability to interpret literary texts and to undertake textual analyses, as well as ther command of argumentative English.	30

Assessment comments

A grade of "Non Presentado" (Absent) will be obtained by not attending the exam and/or by completing less than 50% of the coursework. The second opportunity of assesment (in July) will consist of two sections: 1) a written exam (with identical design and criteria to those in the first opportunity) that will evaluate the command over the contents seen throughout the course and that will be worth 50% of the grade; 2) written activity or activities (depending on each student's case) which will be worth the remaining 50% of the grade and which will be due by the beginning of the final exam. For instance, students needing to make up for this entire percentage of the grade will be expected to turn in an individual, original 5-6 page literary interpretation and textual analysis of a topic that will be announced in due course. Students officially enrolled part-time who have been granted an official dispensation from attending classes will need to contact the teachers at the beginning of the semester and they will be assessed according to the criteria applied in the July opportunity. Students sitting the December exam (final exam brought forward) will be assessed according to the criteria specified for the July opportunity. Plagiarism in any activity will translate into a grade of "0" in this activity. Every assignment has to be turned in in time and in the specified format in order to avoid a penalty of 25% on the grade obtained. For a student to opt to the first opportunity of evaluation (continuous evaluation), he/she will need to have accomplished a minimum of 50% of the compulsory activities (participation and works). A qualification of "non presented" will be obtained by not attending the exam and/or by not accomplishing the works of the course that represent an inferior percentage to 50%. The opportunity of evaluation in July will consist of two sections: 1) a written exam (with the same design and applying identical criteria than that in the opportunity of June) that will evaluate the command of the contents given along the course and that will compute 50% of the mark; 2) the activities to deliver in due time, or at the moment of the final exam, and that will compute the remaining 50% of the mark. Those who are officially registered as part-time students, and have been granted permission not to attend classes, as stipulated in the regulations of this University, will be assessed in either of the opportunities according to the same criteria specified for the second opportunity. Plagiarism in any activity will translate into a qualification of "0" in this activity. All the works and activities have to be delivered in time and form so as avoid a penalty of 25% on the obtained mark.
