Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Workbook	Students are expected to read the assigned material, both primary and secondary sources (the latter will always be brief), BEFORE sessions start. Only very short texts (such as short poems) can be read in class. Students will be provided with a detailed calendar with the assigned readings during the first session with the whole group, but they are encouraged to start reading the TWO long mandatory texts that appear in the bibliography section (SOURCES OF INFORMATION).
Guest lecture / keynote speech	In these lectures, the teachers will refer to a) the socio-historical and cultural background of authors and readings; b) the theoretical concepts behind postcolonial studies; c) the way to read critically and make good use of postcolonial theories. Lectures (DE or "docencia expositiva") are designed for the entire group. Occasionally, there may be a lecture by a guest speaker from another university.
Directed discussion	Based on required readings, students will be encouraged to discuss and express their opinions on a given topic. Class discussions may complement lectures in the DE class, but they will be carried out mostly during the DI and TGR sessions, since it is easier to interact with students in those smaller groups.
Long answer / essay questions	In this type of exercise or test students should provide short written essays in answer to questions of a theoretical-practical nature. These exercises will be mostly carried out in class. The teachers will collect and correct them, since they will constitute a substantial part of the assessment of the subject. When the seminar or small groups (TGR) meet, the teacher will comment on exercises and respond to students' questions and doubts.
Mixed objective/subjective test	These final tests are scheduled for the official exam date(s), in June and July, and they will include questions of a theoretical-practical nature. Such test will include short-answer questions as well as longer (and more complex) essay questions.
Problem solving	This methodology will address the difficulties and doubts that may arise from the readings, debates, exercises and tests. These problems will be attended to in the TGR seminars or, if necessary, in individual tutorials during office hours.

Personalized attention
Methodologies	Description
Problem solving	As befits the continuous assessment system used for this subject, instructors would try and help individual students and small groups to solve any doubt about the texts and concepts discussed in class. Instructors will also be available for orientation as regards their class participation and in-class exercises. Such orientation will be provided either during the TGR seminars or during the weekly office hours.

Assessment
Methodologies	Competencies / Results	Description	Qualification

Directed discussion	A1 A2 A11 A15 B7 B8 C4 C6 C7	These activities will be used to assess the continuous work of students, especially their knowledge and critical understanding of the required readings; hence, an insightful, critical approach to such texts will be especially valued. In addition, and as specified in the requirements for the English Degree, other skills such as the student's linguistic competence in English, will be assessed in these activities. This section will assess in-class activities (either individual or group activities), paying special attention to the student's participative attitude in class.	10
Long answer / essay questions	A9 B1 B2 B3 B6	In addition to having covered the obligatory readings and followed the teacher's explanations, in this type of exercise/test students will have to prove they have understood the explanations and texts in a critical way. In assessing these written exercises, the teacher will pay particular attention to the student's ability for a critical understanding of the texts and concepts seen in class. As specified in the requirements for the English Degree at this level, the teacher will also take into account the student's linguistic competence in English, especially in written English.	50
Mixed objective/subjective test	A3 A6 A7 A9 A11 A15 A16 A17 C2	This type of test will assess the student's ability to understand and approach a literary text critically by asking questions about those texts analyzed in class. In addition, students will have to prove that they have grasped the main postcolonial issues and theoretical concepts, and that they can apply such concepts and critical tools to literary texts. When assessing and marking these exams, the teachers will also take into account the student's linguistic competence in English. These final tests can include short-answer questions ("objective" test) as well as longer essay questions ("subjective" test).	40

Assessment comments

To pass the subject, students should obtain 5 points out of 10 after adding up each section of the assessment procedure. In addition, the student needs to have at least 4 out of 10 in each of the three assessment sections or categories. Only those students who have done a minimum of 50% in the continuous assessment will be allowed to sit for the finals in May-June; otherwise, they will have to wait for the July opportunity. Active participation in the different class activities, as well as additional "extra-credit" activities carried out by the students during the course, could be awarded up to an extra 5% of the final mark. This can include voluntary work, alternative readings or any other activity proposed and accepted by students and teachers.

EXEMPTION (DISPENSA ACADÉMICA): Those who are officially registered as part-time students, and have been granted permission not to attend classes, as stipulated in the regulations of this University, should contact the teacher at the beginning of the course. These students will be assessed in either of the opportunities according to the same criteria specified for the second opportunity.

Grade "NON PRESENTADO": Only those students who do not sit for the June or the July finals, and/or have not completed the 50% will obtain the NP grade.

SECOND OPPORTUNITY (JULY): Those students who have not reached 4 out of 10 points in each of the three assessment sections, even if the overall addition is 5 or higher, will have to go to the finals in July in order to pass the subject. In this opportunity, students will have to prove they have acquired the required skills by doing the following: 1) a written test similar to the June exam (40% of the final mark); 2) a critical essay (50%); 3) written exercises (10%).

Students sitting the December exam (final exam brought forward) will be assessed according to the criteria specified for the July opportunity.

Diversity: the university provides a service known as ADI (Atención á diversidade) specializing in helping "os membros da comunidade universitaria con necesidades especiais derivadas da discapacidade ou doutras formas de diferenza fronte á poboación maioritaria". Those students interested in this service can talk to Prof. Ana Veleiro in our Facultade de Filoloxía or else contact the general ADI office at adi@udc.es.
