Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Seminar	Students are expected to read the assigned material BEFORE sessions start. Students will be provided with a detailed calendar with the assigned readings at the beginning of the semester.
Guest lecture / keynote speech	In these lectures (DE or 'docencia?'), the teachers will refer to a) the socio-historical and cultural background of authors and readings; b) the theoretical concepts behind postcolonial studies; c) ways to read critically and make good use of postcolonial theories.
Directed discussion	Students will be encouraged to discuss and express their opinions on a given topic, orally and in writing. Class discussions may complement lectures in the DE class, but they will be carried out mostly during the DI and TGR sessions.
Long answer / essay questions	Students will write two essays (one half-way through the semester; the other one at the end) based on the novels discussed in the small groups.
Mixed objective/subjective test	This type of test will assess the student's ability to understand and approach a literary text critically by asking questions about those texts analyzed throughout the course. In addition, students will have to prove that they have grasped the main postcolonial issues and theoretical concepts, and that they can apply them to literary texts.

Personalized attention
Methodologies	Description

Seminar	Teachers will help individual students and small groups solve any doubt about the texts and concepts discussed in class. They will also be available for orientation as regards any aspect of the course during the weekly office hours.

(The dates will be specified at the beginning of the semester). In assessing these written exercises, the teacher will pay particular attention to the student's ability for a critical understanding of the texts and concepts seen in class as well as her/his linguistic competence in English.	30
Mixed objective/subjective test	A3 A6 A7 A9 A11 A15 A16 A17 C2	The final exam may include short-answer questions (e.g., identification / analysis of quotations, definition of key terms, etc.) as well as longer (and more complex) questions.	40

Assessment comments
A passing grade means the student has obtained a grade of 5 (or higher) out of 10 after adding up all the assessment sections. Additionally, the subject cannot be passed unless a grade of at least 4 out of 10 is obtained in the final exam. The second opportunity of assessment in July will consist of the following sections: 1) a written test similar to the June final (40%); 2) a critical essay (30%); 3) additional written questions to substitute for the ?Directed discussion? portion of the assessment in the first opportunity (30%). A grade of "Non Presentado" (Absent) will be obtained by not attending the exam and/or by completing less than 50% of the coursework. Students sitting for the December exam (final exam brought forward) will be assessed according to the criteria specified for the July opportunity. Students officially enrolled part-time who have been granted an official dispensation from attending classes will need to contact the teachers at the beginning of the semester, and they will be assessed according to the criteria applied in the July opportunity. Instructors may use the plagiarism-detection service "Turnitin" to check students' work. Plagiarism in any activity will translate into a grade of "0" in this activity. The university provides a service known as ADI ("Atención á diversidade") specializing in helping "os membros da comunidade universitaria con necesidades especiais derivadas da discapacidade ou doutras formas de diferenza fronte á poboación maioritaria". Those students interested in this service can contact Prof. Ana Veleiro in our Facultade de Filoloxía or else the general ADI office at adi@udc.es.

Other comments

Although the detailed reading schedule/calendar will be given out on the first class session, students are encouraged to start reading the TWO LONG REQUIRED READINGS (Achebe's entire novel and, later, Amma Darko's novel) as soon as possible. There are only a few copies of these novels in our UDC libraries, so we advise students to borrow or order them at their earliest convenience.
