General description	This course aims to provide a detailed survey of topics in modern English grammar from a descriptive and practical point of view. We will focus mainly on the syntactic analysis of grammatical categories, although other approaches to the study of English (discourse or textual analysis, for instance) will not be disregarded. Students will also be trained in the use of grammatical structures at an advanced level, since an understanding of the mechanics of language is no substitute for active use and control of the language itself. Desired learning outcome for linguistic competence: C1, and some skills of C2.

Contingency plan	1. Modifications to the contents
	No changes are expected.
	2. Methodologies
	*Teaching methodologies that are maintained
	All methodologies will be maintained during distance learning by means of Teams, Moodle and email, within the official class schedule. The most suitable computer tools will be used for each methodology. The workload of students will not be increased.
	*Teaching methodologies that are modified
	None of them
	3. Mechanisms for personalized attention to students
	Email: Monday to Friday from 9:00 to 17:00
	Moodle: During official class and office hours
	Teams: During official class and office hours. Individual video calls should be requested in advance.
	4. Modifications in the evaluation
	No modifications
	*Evaluation observations:
	The mixed test(s) will take place synchronously, i.e. you will not receive the test(s) prior to the exam date and you will have a limited amount of time to complete it. They will be conducted using Moodle/Microsoft Teams.
	In the event of any justified problems related to internet connectivity during synchronous exams, affected students will be sent examination tasks via email and/or by telephone.
	5. Modifications to the bibliography or webgraphy
	Digital materials will be available on Moodle.

Methodologies
Methodologies	Description
Guest lecture / keynote speech	Oral presentation offered by the lecturer, using audiovisual material ? if necessary? and encouraging student interaction. It is aimed at transmitting knowledge and promoting learning.
Workshop	Applied learning situation incorporating a range of supervised learning and testing techniques (presentation, simulation, debate, problem-solving, guided practice, etc.) with a strongly practical focus, under the guidance of the teacher.
Workbook	Compilation of printed texts and written documents, collected and edited, as a tool to prepare and consolidate the contents and competences of the course.
Document analysis	Research skills development involving use of audiovisual and/or bibliographical documents (relating to a specific topic of study, with targeted analysis activities). It can be used as an introduction to the topic, as the focus for a case study, to explain abstract processes and present complex situations, or as a strategy for synthesising content (theoretical and practical).

Supervised projects	Students will have to submit a written paper and also present it orally (individually or in pairs). The objectives, characteristics, supporting material and format of presentation of the paper will be explained at the beginning of the course. The work will be carried out under the supervision and guidance of the lecturer.
Oral presentation	Oral presentation of the supervised project.
Mixed objective/subjective test	A mixed test consisting of essay-type and objective test questions. Essay section consists of open (extended answer) questions; the objective part of the test may contain multiple-choice, ordering and sequencing, short answer, binary, completion and/or multiple-matching questions, etc.

Assessment comments

IMPORTANT

In order to pass this course, a minimum of 5 out of 10 in the final mark is required. A score of 4 out of 10 is the minimum required in each of the following parts of the course: a) workshop activities, b) weighted average of supervised project and oral presentation, c) final mixed test.

Deadlines for assignments are strict. Late arrivals will be penalised, unless they are duly justified.

Pieces of work including plagiarized material will be marked with 0. To detect plagiarism, the application Turnitin could be used. This application recognises papers previously turned in by other people (or the student him/herself) at this university or other universities.

Extra-credit material carried out by the students during the course could be awarded up to an extra 5% of the final mark. This can include voluntary work, alternative readings, voluntary participation in forums or any other activity proposed and accepted by students and teachers.

The students who do not attend the official exam will be given a grade of NP

(absent) if they have not handed in more than 50% of the continuous assessment activities.

The dates for the supervised projects, oral presentation and mixed objective tests will be announced well ahead of time.

July opportunity: Those students with less than a 4 in each of the parts specified above (even if the average is superior to 5) will have to sit for the "second opportunity exam session" in July, where students can retake those parts they have failed, according to the following distribution of percentages: Supervised written project (30%) defended with an oral presentation (10%), written tasks similar to those evaluated during the course (20%), mixed test about the contents of the course (40%).

Students sitting the December exam (final exam brought forward) will be assessed according to the criteria specified for the July opportunity.

Students who are officially registered as part time, and have been granted permission not to attend classes, as stipulated in the regulations of this University, will be assessed in either of the opportunities according to the same criteria specified for the second opportunity.
